SATURDAY, June 5, 1880.

NOW GET MARRIED.

We will send a copy of the COMMERCIAL, free, to every new bride in the city of Ypsilanti, Ypsilanti town, Augusta, York, Milan, Pittsfield, Saline, Superior, Salem, Sumpter, and Van Buren, until March 1st, '81, who will promptly send us a notice of her marriage, and her address.

Personals are solicited. All persons going away on a visit or having friends visiting them from abroad are requested to notify us by mail or otherwise.

New drains on Ellis street.

It is reported that Justice Skinner will have his hands full, Monday morning.

The sprinkler commenced operations at the depot, Wednesday morning.

The heavy showers of rain did not improve the congregations at the churches Sunday morning.

John Starkweather says the wheat fields look splendidly but are so rank there is danger of lodging or rust

Nearly harvest time, and it would be a capital thing to call on J. M. Chidister and see a sample machine. See ads. in another column.

Chas. Fletcher was put through his paces pretty lively last week for a few minutes on our new improved muscular steam power.

O. E. Thompson is always selling something—a lumber wagon, a mower and reaper, or salt fertilizer.

Ypsilanti Cornet Band came out ahead at Ann Arbor, last Friday, and Dr. Hall and the Ypsilanti choir took charge of vocal music.

The Sons of Temperance will hold their socials hereafter, Wednesday evenings after meetings. None but members are admitted.

The boys say they have had lots of fun at the opera house, the past two evenings. Prof. Reynolds puts the boys through some strange antics.

McAndrew & McElcheran are making lively work on their addition. When completed they will have two sales rooms 100 feet by 27 feet. New plate front, etc.

Phantom Social at Good Templar's Hall to-night. Mr. Kern, Normal student, will deliver an address.

ICE CREAM.

John J. Perrin. Miss Rhoda Sellick.
G. H. St. John. Miss S. E. Ryan.

Nathan Pierce, Whitford Gaines, J. W. Sanford were the immortal three, assisted by the foreman, devil and both editors that constituted the steam power on the COMMERCIAL last week.

The evidence against Dr. Cox for the alleged crime of killing Miss Anna Clemens by abortion is so strong that he is bound over to the Recorder's court. H. M. Cheever is one of the Drs. lawyers.

Next week we shall give our readers, in a supplement, the proceedings of the great convention at Chicago. It will be independent of, and different from those given in the weeklies, compiled from the dailies.

We notice from the Evening Louisville Post that Capt. A. J. May, under very sad circumstances shot a citizen of that city and is under arrest for the crime. It is pronounced by the press "a dastard deed."

Washington street, south of Congress, is undergoing repairs. The old gutter is being cleaned, and in honor of the COMMERCIAL office a new one is being built front of its present location. The street is being graveled.

In the future the evening meetings at the New Jerusalem Chapel will be discontinued, and a bible reading will be given at half past three o'clock in the afternoon, to which all are invited, and are at liberty to take part.

On Friday evening, June 11, the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Baptist church will give a strawberry festival. The friends of the church and society are cordially invited to be present.

Now is the time to subscribe for the COMMERCIAL. We shall begin next week, and hereafter until the ides of November, to give a supplement with choice political news on one side and an entertaining story on the other.

The Livingston Republican thus compliments our Ypsilanti mayor: "Capt. E. P. Allen of Ypsilanti, was chosen temporary and permanent chairman of the republican state convention last week, and right well did he discharge his duties in that position. The Capt. will be a good fellow to keep an eye on sometime in the future."

Preparations are being made by the proper officers for the Fair. The business men of the city are interested. The premium lists are being printed at this office. It affords a grand chance to advertise the business of the city, manufactures, etc. Quite a number have handed in their ads., and yet there is room.

As noticed in the Normal items, Prof. Dickie, of Albion, will give a lecture before the lyceum next Friday evening on "Pluck and Power." Prof. Dickie needs no introduction to Ypsilanti people, as he has given interesting temperance lectures at the opera house. Give him a good audience. No admission fee.

Those interested in good horses will do well to read Mr. Towle's letter in another column on Spavin, Ringbone, Etc., with methods of treatment. We are informed that Mr. Towle is one of the best agricultural writers in Vermont, and no doubt his investigations on this subject will be of great benefit to horse owners.

The second of the series of temperance meetings under the new plan will be held at the methodist church next Sunday evening. Hon. I. Webster Childs will occupy the pulpit, and we predict a good temperance lecture. It is not often that the people of Ypsilanti have an opportunity of hearing Mr. Childs. Show him what kind of an audience we give temperance speakers.

J. Bass, Pastor of the A. M. E. Church in this city, has returned from St. Louis, Mo., where he had been in attendance on the General Conference of said church. J. Bass was a delegate to the said General Conference from the Indiana and Michigan Conference. He will resume his labors at his church as before. Seats free. All are invited.

Prof. John Reynolds of London, England, has been giving a series of lectures at the opera house, the past week, on the subject of Mesmerism. He illustrates by showing his power over volunteers from the audience. He does not claim to have power over all, but evidently controls some. There is a great power in electricity and the doctor is highly magnetic. The motions that his "patients" go through with are highly amusing. His last lecture comes off this evening.

Strawberries were selling yesterday at a shilling.

What is a phantom social? If you don't know, you can find out at Good Templar's hall to-night.

Where is the Commercial office? On Washington St. opposite the Beach manufacturing Co's. buildings, rear of the Union block south of the marble factory.

The "burnt district" being rebuilt. Dr. VanTuyle commenced the brick work on his new barn Tuesday. Mr. Seeley is also putting up a brick barn. This will be a great improvement, both as to looks and safety.

NOTICE.—The W. C. T. U. will hold their meetings the 1st and 4th Tuesdays of each month until September. The citizens prayer meeting held as usual, every Tuesday evening, commencing at half past 7 o'clock and continuing one hour. This meeting has been sustained two years and a half and is one of the variety of methods used to reach the people through an enlightened conscience. Therefore the temperance prayer meeting should be regarded as of the first importance. REC. SEC.

Prof. McLouth at the Methodist church last Sunday evening, showed the absurdity of trying to prove a disagreement between the biblical and scientific accounts of the creation. He first, by means of charts, drawings etc., gave a clear idea of the scientific account, and then reading the bibical account verse by verse, showed how entirely they agreed, both as to what took place and the order of events. The more the Bible is studied, and the nearer we come to scientific truth the greater the coincidence of the two accounts.

The rain did not prevent a few of the faithful from attending Prof. George's lecture at the Presbyterian church last Monday evening on "American Literature." Those who are accustomed to boast of the greatness of America, would be surprised to see how few authors of real merit she produced prior to 1800. Since that time she has not had to take a back seat, in the quality of the works produced at least. The professor has a pleasant style of writing and the paper was worth to those that heard it the trouble it cost them. This ends the program of the Young Peoples' Society of the church. They feel so well paid for their winter's work, they will try it again next winter.

Ypsilanti will soon be noted for patent car-couplers. The latest is the result of some hard study on the part of J. H. Davis. It is a very simple contrivance, strong, and cannot fail of doing its work. It consists of a bumper similar to the one now in use on all freight cars, with the addition of a neat contrivance for coupling, giving a double lock. It is thrown in and out of gear by a lever moving on thimbles so arranged on the principle of screw power, that the coupler can be worked though a large weight is pressing against it. It is held in place by strong supports on each side so that that the cars cannot separate going at any speed. If you are a genius try and beat that. You want to lay in a good stock of provisions.

The work shops of the D. H. & S. W. R. R. company are to be located in Ypsilanti along the line of the road between Lowell and Ann streets. Work has been commenced on the shops and they will be finished, or nearly so, next week. There will be room for five engines, and they will probably carry a force of from fifteen to twenty men. They expect a bonus of $2,000, but that amount has not yet been raised. Subscriptions are now being solicited. They were offered $2,000 to locate in Hillsdale but liked Ypsilanti better. This does not look much like retrogation.

Last Tuesday evening between six and seven, Mrs. D. M. Doyle, with her little child was driving on Ann street, when opposite the residence of Mark Cremer, the Horse became frightened at a barrel and became unmanageable. It whirled around upsetting the buggy, and throwing out the occupants. Mrs. Doyle held on to the reins and was dragged several rods. The horse entered Mr. Cremer's yard and turning around again came back to Ann street, leaping the fence and jumping down an embankment five feet in height. The horse and buggy landed in a heap, and strange as it may seem no bones were broken and the buggy was not seriously damaged. The horse was not vicious but a little skittish and high lifed. He is a valuable animal. Mrs. Doyle does not care about repeating the experiment.

The Loan Exhibition closed last Saturday evening. In one sense it was a grand success, and in another somewhat of a failure. Every one that attended was satisfied that ladies had succeeded in getting together a large collection of rare curiosities, and to those who did not attend must be attributed the lack of larger profits. We give the receipts and expenses.

The train from Chicago, Wednesday Morning, brought a sad message to Mr. Andrew Fisher and family, Augusta. About two months ago their son Charles left them, in good health, to take up a quarter section of land in Clay county, Minn. He was getting along splendidly, and had every prospect of success, until last Saturday, when he met with a sudden death. He attempted to swim a branch of Red river to get a boat for a friend. The river was not wide, but swift and deep. The water was cold and, when within ten feet of his destination, he was taken with a cramp and was drowned. The body remained in the water several hours before it was recovered. His parents were immediately telegraphed and by their request, the remains were sent here for interment. Mr. Leon D. Brown, principal of the union school at Glyndon, Clay Co., Minn., kindly consented to accompany them. Chas Fisher was twenty-five years of age, and an estimable young man. He was an only son, having one sister. At the time of his death $239 were found in his pocket, showing that he had been industrious and saving. His parents and sister have the sympathy of their friends.

F. S. Finley attended the annual sheep shearing festival held May 14th on the farm of Thos. Rix, Kalamazoo County. As we noticed at the time he brought back three very fine specimens but he was not able till this week to give us their weight of fleece, etc. The sheep were purchased of W. N. Johnson, Paw Paw. Two of them were sheared at this shearing and were scored as follows: Ewe, "Lady Thorn," age three, age of fleece twelve mo., weight of fleece 20 lbs, weight of sheep, 112 lbs, white oil first class. Ewe, "Lucy," age three, age of fleece, 12 mo., weight of fleece 22 lbs 2 oz., weight of sheep, 98 lbs., white oil, first class. The other was sheared at the Hamilton shearing the Wednesday before and was scored as follows, Ewe, age three, weight of sheep 105 lbs. age of fleece, twelve mo., weight 21 lbs 14½ oz. Awarded second premium. Mr. Finley was appointed a member of the com. on thoroughbreeds. He was the guest of J. J. Woodman of Paw Paw, and in the evening attended the Grange held at that place. The sheep interest is becoming one of importance. Washtenaw farmers ought not to be behind. In regard to the festival the Paw Paw Free Press and Courier says:

"Not the least interesting part of the festival was the picnic dinner. Tables had been erected in the grove which surrounds the residence of Mr. Rix, and the farmers' wives brought forth their baskets full of good things and the tables were loaded with delicacies and substantial dishes in the greatest profusion. No one was allowed to go hungry for lack of invitations to dine. Everybody was well filled with good victuals and good cheer. During the afternoon short speeches were made on subjects connected with wool-growing by Messrs. J. J. Woodmen, Finley, Kirby, Coats, and others. The tariff on wool; the best time for shearing; the custom of "docking" heavy fleeces, instead of selling them on their merits; the policy of washing wool, or leaving it unwashed; the probable price of wool this season; were among the topics touched upon.

On motion of Mr. Kirby a committee of three was appointed, consisting of Wm. G. Kirby, of Galesburg, J. J. Woodman Paw Paw, and W. R. Coats of Portage, to correspond with manufacturers, and obtain their views as to the washing of sheep, and report at the next annual meeting' On motion of Mr. Morton, the commitee was directed to corrrspond immediately, and make the result known through the county papers.

The shearing was a big success; it would have been better with plenty of room and shearers. At the fair ground next year there certainly will be no lack of room.

NORMAL ITEMS.

The announcement that Prof. Eastabrook will sever his connection with the Normal at the close of the present year, occasions much surprise and regret among the students.

Prof. Dickie, of Albion, will lecture before the lyceum next Friday evening, June 11th., subject, "Pluck and Power." All are invited. Admission free.

Miss Sarah Cooley and George Miller, of Dryden, visited the Normal Friday last.

Miss B. Bradshaw, a member of the senior class, has accepted a position in the schools of Warsaw, Indiana.

The senior class in Greek will complete the Iliad this week and the great epic will be left in dignified repose.

The lyceum will endeavor to throw a little light on the question whether political parties are not essential to the welfare of the state. Friday evening next.

The political ferment at Chicago during the week has invaded the quiet halls of the Normal, and students have discussed the situation with the ardor and skill of veterans. Blaine is the favorite of the majority.

The members of Professor McLouth's astronomy class take a lesson in the use of the telescope every clear night. The discovery of a new asteroid will of course be shortly announced.

The many friends of Mr. F. A. Wallace who was obliged to withdraw from school on account of ill health will learn with pleasure that his health is improving and that he expects soon to visit the Normal.

The public exercises of the Pleiades Society will be held at Normal Hall Saturday evening, June 12. Misses Barkus, Deyo, Holton, Stringer, Castle, Wallace and Sutton will present essays, A fine program has been prepared, and a pleasant and enjoyable evening is promised to all who attend.

GOOD ADVICE.—A young man with an extremely powerful voice was in donbt what branch of the art to adopt. He went to Cherubini for advice.

"Suppose you sing me a few bars," said the master,

The young fellow sang so loud that the walls fairly shook.

"Now," said he, "what do you think I am best fitted for?"

"Auctioneer," dryly replied Cherubini.—French.

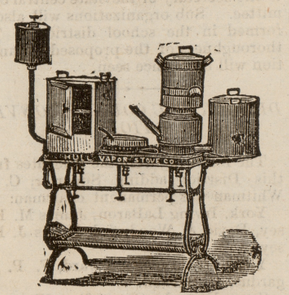
Housekeeper's FRIEND.



The above cut does not represent the "House that Jack Built," but shows what some active Yankee genious has brought about to ameliorate the hard lot of the overheated housewife or kitchen maid. It needs but little intelligence to see that it is a Gasoline Stove. To be appreciated it needs to be used but a very few days. For facility of operation, for comfort to the operator, and for light draft on the family exchequer, there is no other stove fit to be named the same day in comparison with it. A few were put into use last season, and created a perfect enthusiasm in the minds and heaats of the women who were fortunate enough to have husbands who were thus mindful of their comfort. We would refer to them here but those gentle ladies might be frightened to see their names in print. We have a full line of the stoves for sale on

Good Will to Man—Onward and Upward.

SATURDAY, June 5, 1880.

FOR the first time in the history of National conventions, the committee on credentials is the most important and our Conger is the chairman.

GENERAL GORDEN, U. S. senator from Georgia, has resigned his seat in congress and is succeded by ex-Gov. Joseph Brown. Brown is said to be a Grant man.

Last week we published the proceedings of the Liquor dealer's convention at Ann Arbor, and this week the grand mass gathering of the invincible temperance host.

STALE reading, the immense amoun of twaddle about this man andthat prominent man, what is conjectured will be done and what not. How many votes each candidate will probably have on first ballot. We are after facts, what has been actually done. Now then, Hoar is permenent chairman as well as temporary. His speech opening the convention save an allusion to Lincoln is tame enough. About 100 per cent., under Capt. Allen's at Detroit.

COL. LEE went to Chicago, Monday, and returned Wednesday evening. He reported all chaos at Chicago. He came home to get the news, about in the condition of a bewildered delegate from Kansas:

"A local Kansas politician, who had things so well in hand in Kansas politics that he thought he could eliminate a theory out of any sort of chaos, told the folks at home that he was coming to Chicago, and would soon let them know just how they stood. He came up, remained two days in dazzled wonder, and at the end of the second day telegraphed home, 'For the love of heaven send me some news of the convention. I can't make head nor tail of this.'"

THE CHICAGO CON VENTION.

Seven hundred and fifty-six Republican delegates, combining in large measure the leadership and ability of the great Republican party, the greatest and grandest party that ever existed in any Republic—a party whose record of twenty years past is the most memorable in the annals of any government upon earth; this convention meets at a time when the question whether we are a nation, or simply a number of states bound by a rope of sand, supposed to be settled by the war, is to be definitely determined by the success or defeat of the Republican party. It meets, demoralized by discordant opinions as to candidates, the unecessarily embittered feeling engendered by unwise partisans, the outrageous attacks upon two of the leading candidates, one the great soldier of his age, and the other surpassing even Henry Clay in leadership and statesmanship. It meets, amid a multitude of confused voices, mean rivalries, and conclusions must be reached and men nominated for President and Vice-President who will command the confidence and votes of a majority of the people. There stands out prominently three great leaders of states—Conklin, Cameron and Logan—united in the desire to secure for a third time the services of the soldier-statesman for President. Apparently it was Grant against the field; but the friends of other candidates united in solid column to resist first, the "Unit" plan of voting, viz.: by states instead of congressional districts, and won; second, they formed a combination that overturned the almost universally conceded prospect that Grant would be the nominee.

In the national committee they fought over the temporary organization and even went so far as to propose to depose Cameron from the chairmanship. No doubt in order to furnish pabulum for the readers of newspapers—whole pages of reported talk and acts are unsaid and not done. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, is elected temporary chairman without opposition in the committee or convention.

CONVENTION ITEMS.

Wednesday evening session of the Chicago Convention was exciting. Conklin, Hale and Frye measured sharp blades.

James F. Joy says "Michigan will stand by Blaine till the last dog is hung."

On a side show as to which should first come report on rules or credentials vote 308—405, Michigan stood 1—21. The former represents the Grant vote, the latter, anti-Grant.

Organization is not yet effected. If the Convenion finishes its work to-night it will get along fast.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

The Great Mass Temperance Convention Friday.—A Procession Nearly Two Miles Long.—Every Red Ribbon Club in the County Represented.—Monster Meetings at the Opera House in the Afternoon and Evening.

From the Register.

Pursuant to call a mass temperance convention of all the Red Ribbon organizations in the county was held at the opera house on Friday, and rarely if ever has so large a demonstration been made in this city by any organization of any character. The people began to arrive early in the morning, by wagons and carriages from the country and also by the different trains. By ten o'clock the streets near the opera house were fairly crowded with masses of people on foot and in vehicles of every discription, and it was not until about eleven o'clock that the monster procession started on its line of march through the principal streets of the city. There were especially large delegations from Ypsilanti, Chelsea and Dexter, each accompanied by its own band. The entire procession was arrainged and marshaled by Henry Laubengayer, Zenus Sweet, Henry Mathews and John Marony, the marshals of the day.

The procession, led by the Ann Arbor band and the Ann Arbor Red Ribbon delegation proceeded up Huron street and around the campus—around which it more than reached—and thence down Williams street to Main again. In the procession appeared the banners of the Red Ribbon clubs of Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Dexter, Chelsea, Lodi, Superior, Lima, Dixboro, Salem, Stony Creek, Hamburg, Ford's Corners, Lapham Corners, Saline, Moorville, Leeland's, Whitmore Lake.

The music furnished by the four bands of Chelsea, Ypsilanti, Dexter and this city added greatly to the interest of the occasion and the streets were filled with people.

At noon a large number of the visitors took their dinner in the basement of the opera house, while the restaurants and hotels furnished refreshments to many more. There must have been at least 2,000 visitors in attendance.

At about two o'clock the exercises in the opera house began, the several bands occupying places on the platform and playing several pieces ending with "Hail Columbia," and then retiring to give place to the speakers. The opera house was crowded to its fullest capacity, the standing room even being fully occupied. The different banners of the various clubs were stacked against the walls of the stage.

The meeting was called to order by the Rev. D. R. Shier, of Saline, who, after an opening prayer and reading of scripture, briefly announced its object, which was to organize throughout the county, with a view to secure the adoption in the State of an amendment to the constitution, in the form of law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of malt and spiritous liquors, except for medicinal, mechanical and sacramental purposes. The platform already adopted by the Congressional and State Central Committees and previously published in the Register, was ratified by acclamation.

A committee composed of John Schumacher, of this city, C. H. Kempt, of Kempt, of Chelsea, and Watson Snyder, of Ypsilanti, was appointed to report a country organization.

Short addresses were then delivered by J. C. Bontecou, of Jackson; R. E. Frazer, of this city; J. Webster Childs, of Augusta; Mrs. O. B. Schuyler, of this city; E. P. Allen, of Ypsilanti.

The speakers all pronounced themselves squarely in favor of the prohibition law. All they asked was that the people should have their constitutional right to express their opinion by vote in favor or against such a law. They therefore demanded that menbers of the legislature should be elected, who would pledge themselves to give the people this right. They did not require that the candidates should be in favor of such a law, but that they should be willing to give the people their right to determine whether or not a prohibition law should be passed, amendatory to the constitution.

In the evening another large mass meeting was held and addresses were delivered by Profs. Steere and Wilson, of the University; P. Palmer, of Lapeer; M. J. Fanning and Judge Cheever, of this city; C. H. Kempf, of Chelsea, and Dr. Haskell.

The committee on organization reported the following county committee, which is is called to meet in this city on Monday, June 14.

The secretary of each township committee will be expected to report once a month to the secretary of the county committee, the number of the temperance organizations in the township, number of meetings held and number of voters who have signed the petition to the Legislature. The secretary of the county organization will similarly report to the secretary of the congressional district and he again to the secretary of the State central committee. A lady went into a dry-goods store and inquired for "bleached cloth." Several pieces of sheeting were offered for inspection, but failed to suit. "Perhaps," said the lady, "if I should tell you what I want it for you would know better what to give me. It is to be used for reposing robes." The man threw down another piece, called the next saleman, who was a married man, and rapidly vanished in the distance.

SNAKES AS LIFE DESTROYERS.—The loss of life in In India due to the ravages of vernomous snakes is almost incredible. Yet the disease which is as wily and deadly as as the deadliest India reptile, is winding its coil around thousands of people while the victims are unconscious of its presence. It has long been a hobby with incompetent physicians to assume that consumption is incurable after the formation of tubercles has begun; and in every case they fail to effect a cure,—of course tubercles had begun to form and they were incurable. The records of medical science disprove any such theory. On the contrary, in cases of lung disease which had been cured and the patients lived forty and fifty years in robust health, post-mortem examinations showed large cicatrices (scars) where the tubercles had been formed and removed. The tubercles are removed by absorption into the blood. An efficient alterative, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, must be used to cleanse the blood of the scrofulous impurities. For tubercular consumption is only a form of scrofulous disease. Golden Medical Discovery is a sovereign remedy for all forms of scrofulous disease, or king's-evil, such as tumors, white swellings, fever-sores, scrofulous sore eyes, as well as for other blood and skin diseases.

Never permit your druggist to furnish any tonic but Reed's Gilt Edge. It is the best.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer restores both the hair and its color, increases and thickens its growth.

The pangs endured by the early Christian martyrs were no doubt excruciating, but not so prolonged nor scarcely more dreadful than those experienced by the sufferers from inflammatory rheumatism—a disease which is easily curable at the outset with Thomas' Eclectric Oil—a sovereign remedy for pain—a reliable curative of kidney, liver and other complaints, and a medicine of the purest as well as most salutary kind. Read the regular advertisement.

NO GOOD PREACHING.—No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable and dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt in such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. See other column.—Albany Times.

THE GRANT BOOM.—It seems perfectly easy to some for Grant to be elected to the third term, but one thing we do know that Kendall's Spavin Cure is the very best liniment ever discovered for any blemish on horses and for rheumatism or any deep seated pain in man. It is used at all seasons of the year with wonderful success. Read the advertisement for Kendall's Spavin Cure in another column.

Elegant Hair is woman's crowning beauty. When it fades she fades as well. While it is kept bright, her personal attractions are still maintained. By preserving the hair fresh and vigorous a youthful appearance is continued through many years. Those who grieve over their fading hair turning gray too early, should know that Ayer's Hair Vigor prevents it, and restores gray or faded hair to its natural color. It is a clear and healthful preparation, containing neither oil, dye, nor anything deleterious, and imparts to the scalp what is most needed—a sense of pleasant and delightful freedom from scurf or dandruff.—New Berne (N. C.) Times.

GRANT IN JERUSALEM.

Speak not to me of banquets, of rich viands and red wine,
In this old sacred city, where was slain the Son divine;
No homage to me offer—to me a sinful man—
Here where my Saviour suffered and wrought out the wonderous plan.

Or what the cause secured alone by sacrifice of life?
The conflicts of the ages are o'ershadowed by that hour,
When here, the Son of God assailed, alone, Death's tyrant power.

I have fought a hundred battles 'midst sulphurous clouds and flame,
When death-shots smote the air as smites the tempest's sleet and rain:
But never such a conflict has the sun e're blushed to see,
As that in yonder garden which my Saviour fought for me.

"A name?" Ah, yes, I know, I've heard the ringing wild "hurrahs,"
When out from battle clouds emerged the glorious sttipes and stars;
But here I see another crowd—I see the Victim pale;
The brutal cry, "Away with Him!" borne on the evening gale.

Stern on through volleying thunders and death-hails thickest flight;
'Twas not a time for weeping, nor e'en a thought of loss;
Now, on yon hill, through tears, I see Him sink beneath His cross.

I've heard the shout of triumph of the millions on that day,
When the last death-shot had echoed and the war-clouds rolled away;
But here, I bow in anguish, as I hear that piercing cry,
"It is finished!" Ah, my Saviour then bows His head to die!

Then not to me a sinner, yet a sinner saved by grace;
By whose stripes I am healed, be honors in this place;
Oh, here be no name honored on soil which he has trod,
But that above all others—the glorious Son of God!

—By Rev. M. Trafton, D. D.

PARENTAL SYMPATHY.

"How your children love you! I would give the world to have my children so devoted to me!" said a mother to one who did not regard the time given to her children as so much capital wasted. Parents are fatally wrong when they grudge the little time necessary for their children's amusement and instruction, for no investment brings so sure and so rich returns,

The child's love is holy; and if the parent does not fix that love on himself he deserves to lose it, and in after-life to be bewailing his poverty of heart.

The child's heart is full of love, and it must gush out towards somebody or something. If the parent is worthy of it, and porsesses it, he is blest; and the child is safe. When the child loves worthy persons and receives their sympathy, he is less liable to be influenced by the undeserving; for in his soul are models of excellence with which he compares others.

Any parent can descend from his chilling dignity, and freely answer the child's questions, talking familiarly and tenderly with him; and when the little one wishes help, the parent should come out of his abstractions and cheerfully help him. Then his miud will return to his speculations elastic, and it will act with force. All parents can find a few minutes, occasionally, during the day, to read little stories to the children, and to illustrate their respective tendencies to good and bad feelings. They can talk to them about flowers, birds, trees, angels, and about God.

They can show interest in their sports, determining the character of them. What is a surer way than binding the child to the heart of the parent? When you have made a friend of a child, you may congratulate yourself you have a friend for life.

AN ANECDOTE OF GRANT.

He was one day busy in his tent with his military plans when he heard his orderly engaged in a conversation to which the visitor gave a strong foreign accent.

"Is de Sheneral in de tent?" said the voice.

"Yes, sir," replied the orderly, "but he is busy with his maps and can't see you.

"Oh, den he is going to advance. My goodness gracious, my vriend, I must see ze Sheneral shust fir a few little moments."

"Can't be done, sir, I have orders to admit no one."

"But is he going to advance?"

"How should I know? Gen. Grant does not generally tell his orderlies of his plans."

"But if he vool advance, vare vood he go? Into the cotton region, vood he lo?"

"How should I know?"

"My vriend, I haf a most important broposal to make de Sheneral—a broposal mind you, my young vriend."

"Can't hear your proposals, sir. Please te step out and on."

"Sthop one little minute, will you? Blease say to Sheneral Grant I haf one gran' object for him, von rich speculation on de cotton, do you see?"

Grant, who had heard the conversation through the thin walls of his tent, and recognizing the voice of the speaker as one of the vampires who hung about his army, suddenly rose from his seat, and going to the door of the tent, seized the Jew by the collar, and lifting him from the ground, hurled him headlong into a mud-puddle. Before the orderly could recover from his surprise, or the Jew realize what had taken place, Grant had returned to his chair in the tent, and was again busily engaged with his maps, as though nothing had happened. —Gen. Brisbin.

WHAT HUXLEY SAYS TO BOYS.

A somewhat varied experience of men has led me, the longer I live, to set the less value upon mere intellectual quickness; to attach more and more importance to industry and to physical endurance. Indeed, I am much disposed to think that endurance is the most valuable quality of all; for industry, as the desire to work hard, does not come to much if a feeble frame is unable to respond to the desire. Everybody who has had to make his way in the world must know that while the occasion for intellectual effort of a high order is rare, it constantly happens that a man's future turns upon his being able to stand a sudden and heavy strain upon his powers of endurance. To a lawyer, a physician, or a merchant it may be everything to be able to work sixteen hours a day for as long as is needful without yielding up to weariness. Moreover, the patience, tenacity, and good humor which are among the most important qualifications for dealing with men are incompatible with an irritable brain, a weak stomach, or a defective circulation.

It is quite true that practical life is a kind of long competitive examination, conducted by that severe pedagogue, Professor Circumstance. But my experience leads me to conclude that his marks are given much more for character than for cleverness.

No success is worthy of the name unless it is won by honest industry and brave breasting of the waves of fortune. Unless at the end of life some exhalation of the dawn still hangs about the palpable and the familiar; unless there is some transformation of the real into the best dreams of youth, depend upon it whatever outward success may have gathered around a man, he is but an elaborate and a mischievous failure.

FARMING THAT DON'T PAY.

It don't pay to be caught in the spring without a wood pile large enough to last twelve months; or to open the gates and let your stock into the fields as soon as a bare spot appears; or to keep it on short rations, so that when it does go to grass it will take half the summer to get thrifty and strong.

It don't pay to leave the work of mending your tools and selecting and securing your seed until the day you want to use them, thereby causing costly delay.

It don't pay to sow or plant poor seed because you happpen to have it on hand.

It don't pay to leave weak places in the fence in the hope that the cattle won't find them; and if you keep sheep, it don't pay to let them run at large in the spring until they become tramps and cannot be kept at home by any ordinary fence.

It don't pay to neglect cows, ewes or sows at the time they are dropping their young.

It don't pay to let the spring rains wash the value out of the manure that has accumulated in the barn-yard during the past winter.

It don't pay to let the hons lay under the barn and be eaten up by the skunks.

It don't pay to put off any kind of spring work until the last moment, nor does it pay to work land when it is too wet.

It don't pay to let the turnips, cabbages, beets or even apples in the cellar rot and breed disease; for if you have more than you can eat or sell, the stock will be profited by them.

It don't pay to summer a poor cow simply because no one will buy her.

It don't pay to sell a heifer calf from your best cow to the butcher, simply because it will cost you more to raise it than you can buy a scrub for next fall.

It don't pay to keep banking around the house until it rots the sills.

It don't pay to be stingy in sowing grass seed, or try to live without a garden.

Fnally, it don't pay to provoke the women by leaving them to cut the stove wood or to carry it from the door-yard or to remind you every morning in haying or mowing that you must saw enough before you go to work to last the day through.

CERTAIN DOWNFALL.—The Charleston News and Courier opposes whisky-drinking and the carrying of deadly weapons with great vigor and ability. It urges the women of South Carolina to frown upon the tippler and the armed ruffian and refuse to associate with them, social influences being powerful where law is often feeble. We copy from one of its editorials: "The person who drinks liquor habitually is sure to be guilty, in time, of every fault. It is a peculiarity of alcohol that it develops every evil of which the human mind is capable, without strengthing a single good quality of any sort. The tippler cannot be depended on for anything that is estimable. In time the hand will lose its cunning and the brain will grow sluggish, while the moral deterioration keeps pace with the physical. A tippler cannot be trusted, because he is never himself, and it is next to impossible to tell whom he belongs to. Employers are therefore more than justified in discharging persons of intemperate habits who will not heed the warning given them. They will find it to their advantage to have none but sober men around them. Business will run more smoothly and accurately. An encouragement, too, will be given to those who are habitually temperate, in the distinction made between those who are always their own masters and those who, for a greater or less time every day, are subject to the latent beast in every heart." The policy here recommended, of employing none but sober, temperance men, has been persued in the COMMERCIAL office for more than 10 years, with the happiest effects to all parties—except liquor-sellers.

"The public schools had accomodations for only a small portion of the children of school age. The instruction was of the most meager character, consisting chiefly of the catechism, with very little reading and writing, a smattering of the four simple rules of Arithmetic, and little geography beyond that of the papal states— a territory containing 3,000,000 of inhabitants, and only about three times the size of the state of Connecticut. The mass of the people could neither read nor write. A primary school in a log school-house in the back settlements of our country, in its instruction, course of study, and proficiency of its pupils, was far superior to the parochial schools even in the city of Rome. I described to Antonelli the free public schools and the state of public education in Massachusetts, giving that as a model to the American system. His reply was that he 'thought it better that the children should grow up in ignorance, than to be educated in such a system of schools as the state of Massachusetts supported; that the essential part of the education of the people was the catechism; and while arithmetic and geography, reading and writing, and other similar studies, might be useful, they were not essential.' His cousin, in speaking of the state of society in the Holy City, remarked sarcastically, 'its leading and most numerous institutions were a church, a monastery, a nunnery, and a foundling asylum.'"—Dexter Hawkins.

We are living in grand and tumultuous times. Science illumines every month, almost, with the brilliant gleam of some new discovery. Revolutions are abroad in the earth, and nations sit in breathless expectation. Revelation and science are in battle array, and the future of the world depends upon the issue. The Turkish empire totters to its fall, and we must make a new geography. The British empire thrills with political revolution. For the first time in 800 years Rome elects a pope who has no shadow of temporal empire, and the two cruelest powers that ever cursed mankind—the bloody empire of the Turk, and the equally bloody power of Popery—go arm in arm toward sunset. And we are situated that no revolution anywhere makes a forward movement, that the telegraph does not tell us of every footfall. The very air is full of wonders.

And yet, in enlightened America, our young people are compelled to resort to the dance as their only method of spending an evening. Has it come to this? With a school house at every cross road, a newspaper in every village, and telegraph wires running to China, is the average youth of polite society really driven to the dance as a screen for his ignorance and thoughtlessness?

It weighs with me as a Methodist that our discipline is against it. The matter is of such grave importance, that the highest council of our church has put on record a formal utterance upon the subject. (Read discipline.)—Dr. Bayless.

SLIPS.

The older Kalloch fears that his son may be embarrassed in his ministerial work, by his murder of DeYoung.

Eleanor, the recently married daughter of General Sherman, seems to be a sensible girl. She refused to allow her trosseau and gifts to be paraded in the newspapers, on the ground that they were private.

Men seldom improve when they have no model but themselves to copy after. —Goldsmith.

If we want to conquer the world for the Lord Jesus Christ, we must take men one by one.—Spurgeon.

The secret of true blessedness is character, not condition; your happiness consists not in where you are, but in what you are.

Mr. Beecher is quoted as saying in one of his talks to his people, "When my liver is out of order the whole Kingdom of God is out of order."

Fred Douglass's wife is a full-blooded, illiterate negress, to whom he was engaged while a slave, and after his escape a sentiment of honor led him to make her his wife. He is greatly attached to her.

There are depths in the ocean which no tempest ever stirs; they are beyond the reach of all storms which sweep and agitate the surface of the sea. There are heights in the blue sky to which no cloud ever ascends, where no tempest ever rages, where all is perpetual sunshine. Each of these is an emblem of the soul which Jesus visits; to whom he speaks his peace, whose fear he dispels, and whose lamp of hope he trims.—Tweedie.

Live Long and be Happy.

Why should not everyone live out their full allotted time, enjoy good health and be happy? Surely there is no good reason, and many will allow impure blood, weakness of the kidneys, imperfect digestion, and urinary troubles to undermine and break down their general health, and carry them to a premature grave. Some seek relief in mineral poisons, in pill form, etc., others resort to extensively advertised alcoholic beverages and fermented liquors, only to feel themselves for a time somewhat b etter, but after a while, much worse. Now why should this be so? It is well known by the intelligent portion of our community that Dr. Guysott's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla will surely remove all these disorders. This remedy is the wonderful discovery of an eminent French physician, and has proven in thousands of instances to be the best vegetable blood purifier known to medical men. It never fails to effectually cure Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, weakness of the kidneys, all nervous disorders and debility, and all urinary and digestive troubles. It makes the old feel full of youthful vigor, and the young energetic and gay, restoring perfect manhood and womanhood, especially when the disease has a tendency to weaken the mind, body, and nervous system. Do not despair. A single bottle will convince you of its great merit as a health renewer for it begins at once to give new life and new vigor to both body and mind, never failing to remove all symptons of any and every disease that can be cured by cleansing, renovating, purifying and strengthening the human system, driving out, as by magic, the many ills that flesh and blood is heir to, and building up new health, new vigor, and new life. Large quart bottle, $1 00. Have your druggist get this excellent preparation for you—take no other. 845-1yr.

Be Wise in Time.

It is a fact well known by almost all intelligent families that Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Chery has cured more bases of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, etc., than any any other physician's preseriptions ever compounded. It releives, as if by magic, all soreness and irritation of throat and lungs. It is quieting and soothing in its effect, and is unexcelled as a general tonic. Keep a bottle always on hand. A few doses never fail to cure an ordinary rough or cold. Price of large pint bottles, $1.00. Have your druggist get you this wonderful cure—take no other. 8451y

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

For the speedy cure of Consumption and all diseases that lead to it, such as stubborn Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Ashthma, pain in the side and chest, dry hacking cough, tickling in the throat, Hoarseness, Sore Throat and all chronic or lingering diseases of the throat and lungs. DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY has no equal and has established for itself a world wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and the press have complimented it in the most glowing terms. Go to your druggist and get a trial bottle free of charge or a regular size for $1.00. For sale by Frank Smith, Ypsilanti. 5

DIED.

WEED.—In this city, on Friday, May 28, 1880, after a lingering and painful illness, Hattie E. Weed, aged 29 years.

The funeral of Miss Hattie E. Weed took place from the family residence on Normal street, on Tuesday afternoon, June 1st., 1880. The large assemblage of relatives and friends on this occasion, told how this family, through its interesting relations to this community for nearly half a century has won upon the affections of the people, as well as of the high esteem in which Miss Hattie herself was held.

Miss Hattie was one of our most worthy young ladies, an exemplary member of the Presbyterian church, and generally beloved both for her lovely disposition and for her simple but deep and earnest piety. She was one of the founders of the Young Ladies Mission Circle of the Presbyterian church, and the esteem in which she was held in that society was testified to by the profusion of flowers which the officers and members provided for her funeral. The casket lay in a bed of flowers, while wreaths encircled it and the most tasteful and beautiful designs—symbols of christian faith and hope and rest crowned it.

The hymns sung, "Rock of Ages" and "My Faith Looks up to Thee" were the deceased's own selections, and were most sweetly and impressively rendered by the choir of the church.

The services were conducted by the pastor. Rev. J. M. Richmond assisted by Prof. Estabrook who led in prayer.

The bereaved family wish to have expressed here their thanks for the many kind and thoughtful attentions that have been paid to them and to her who is gone, during this season of sorrow.

They feel that everything has been done that kind hands could do and loving hearts devise to comfort them, and to carry out Hattie's wishes; that everything about her should be cheerful, that death to all beholders might be robbed of everything suggestive of terror or gloom.

"Nevertheless not as I will, but as Thou wilt."—Matt. 25: 39.

These passages of scripture which I have read (2d. Cor. 5:1-9, Jas. 14: 1-5, Rev. 21: 1-7, 22: 1-5.) as well as the hymns we sing to-day were chosen for this occasion by her, whose departure from us has called us together. To me, the most impressive service we could render would be to tarry in silence in the presence of the precious dust of her whom we loved, and meditate on these beautiful words to which her finger, now fixed in death, still points, and allow these love and trust and hope breathing verses to distill their gracious influences upon our souls.

For she "being dead yet speaketh; not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth."

And yet in the hope that some word may be spoken that will deepen impressions already made by a character singularly lovely and a life peculiarly devoted; that will lead some to seek that grace or seek in larger measure that grace which the life thus early cut off has most wonderfully magnified; or that will tend to lighten the burden and cheer the hearts that for the moment are feeling the grievousness of chastisement, I permit myself to add a few words:

It is not necessary to occupy time here with a sketch of the life of one who was so well known, and known only to be loved so well by all.

Although part of this life was spent away from here, yet such has been the relations of this family to this people for nearly half a century, that it was impossible for any member of it to be overlooked, or even to pass, though absent, quite out of mind.

So that Hattie E. Weed has been a familiar name in almost every family in Ypsilanti. Hattie was possessed of a naturally lovely disposition which attracted and secured for her many friends. I believe she was a favorite wherever she was known. Although delicate and oftentimes suffering, sometimes entirely prostrated by bodily infirmities, she was always hopeful, persevering, cheerful, happy. She enjoyed life and lived to have others enjoy it.

With all the natural life and loveliness which made Hattie always attractive, there early came to be readily perceived in her a deep religious experience, moving and moulding her life and cromning her natural attractions with heavenly beauty. At the age of twelve she united with the church at Granville, Ill., at which place the family then resided. Since then she has given constant and ever increasing evidences of the sincerity of the profession there made. None who knew her could for a moment doubt the reality of her religious life. Devotion to her Savior seemed to become more and more the moving spring of her life. Religion, with her, was not something put on, but a power working within her; not something simply to be professed, but to be practiced; not something to die by, but something to live by. Christ seemed to be formed in her the hope of glory. And yet with all her natural womanly modesty and her true christian humility she was not ashamed of Christ or to witness for him on all suitable occasions. To be silent when she felt she ought to speak for her master she felt was to deny him. While there were many still without Christ and without hope in the world; many still in the darkness of sin or of doubt, she felt that she could not be true to her own convictions or to him who held her affections and hide her light, as it were, under a bushel. Some of you, I trust, will never forget, and never fail to profit by the words she has spoken in your prayer meetings and elsewhere. It is sad to think that those who dared to speak openly for Christ are one by one passing so rapidly away and so few seem willing to take their places.

But not only by word of mouth did she testify for Christ, but she rejoiced in being an interested worker for Christ as well. Few of our young people seemed to have a deeper interest in the church and all that pertained to the cause of Christ. And few would be missed more than she will be.

Among other things upon which she has left the impress of her head, or hand, or heart, the mission circle which occupies so prominent and interesting a place in our church owes its existence largely to Miss Hattie and another (Miss Ganson) who too, has gone to her rest. I trust it will be a constant incentive to diligence to all the members of the Young Ladies Mission Circle that the founders of that society have been, even while young ladies, called to leave the circle here, to join the triumphant throng yonder. The work which they began, is bequeathed to you as a peculiarly sacred trust now as having joined the great cloud of witnesses, they view you run the christian race, heralding the good news to all people.

From all these and other good works which occupied Hattie's time and attention she was prematurely laid aside by enfeebled health.

Her sickness for almost a year has been generally known, and has caused universal regret. When some months ago death seemed to be very near, and mention was made of the fact in the prayer meeting and the young people's prayer meeting it seemed to take a very deep hold upon many hearts. Prayers many and fervent were offered. It pleased the Lord to spare her yet a little longer and apparently for this purpose that He might show us more fully the sufficiency of his grace in sustaining a child of his love in suffering, and in the daily prospect of death.

Her sufferings for months were great frequently intense, and yet there never escaped one murmuring word. Her prolonged stay was to those who were privileged to be with her a prolonged blessing. I always felt and have frequently remarked, that in visiting her, I was the one benefited. Instead of being ministered unto she became the minister of comfort and cheer to others.

Her desire to live was very strong, yet not so much for herself as for others. Her great anxiety was, that her mother and sister would be so lonely without her. Notwithstanding this clinging to life, which indicated a perfectly clear, natural, healthy condition of her mind, and those strong natural affections that led her to dread the parting from those she loved, she was all resigned to her Father's will. Thus in the fullest exercise of all her mental faculties faith triumphed.

It was as though she were constantly saying "Nevertheless not as I will but as Thou wilt."

The last days were peculiarly peaceful. When I asked her the day before she died how it was with her, she said, "at rest." There was no conflict any where. She was "only waiting" she said. When asked, is it bright beyond? "The gates are shut yet, but I suppose they will open as I get nearer." During these days although suffering, her mind was unclouded and indeed remained so until her last, and many were the thoughtful messages and words of parting she said or sent to friends, and many comforting words of assurance in regard to her own happy condition she left to be woven in memorie's wreath. To some near and dear to her, she left the message that she wanted them not to be luke-warm christians, but living, active, christians. When asked if she had any message for the young people, she said: "I have spoken so many hasty words that I am afraid that anything I can say will be of no use. But I do love them, and tell them that if they would be happy christians they must be earnest christians. I have failed that I did not consult the guide book enough. If I had studied the Bible more I might have had more light and joy now."

At another time, she expressed a wish that none would put off their preparation for death until they came to a sick bed. She found amid her sufferings that that would have been a poor place. With the family and loved ones who gathered near her, her conversation was truly in Heaven from whence also she was looking for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ; who shall change our vile body, and fashion it like unto his own glorious body. She was looking unto Jesus, and said He died for sinners. I am a sinner, He died for me, why should I not trust him?" And thus trusting she could not help saying "Unto you therefore which believe, He is precious."

In her last moments she was permitted to have fellowship with Christ who suffered such great agony in the garden. She was not alone in her sufferings. Her Saviour was with her even then. We pass through no darker than he has gone before. His promise is "I will come again and receive you unto myself." And even her last sufferings speak to us comforting assurances that thesoul, the spiritual nature succumbs not to the exhaustion and decay of the physical body, but while bodily strength faileth the spiritual is revived dayby day. May we not therefore thus argue. Hence this conflict between the immortal spirit and the corruptable body; hence the parting struggle in which the indwelling spirit seeks to escape the ruin and corruption of the crumbling tenement and hence death does not end all. "We know that if the earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved we have a building of God a house not made with hands eternal in the Heavens."

Through all these sufferings her faith never wavered, but her prayer was. Father take—"come Lord Jesus come quickly" and when failing nature was almost exhausted she began to say:

"Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my soul"

But the measure was never completed on earth. Sweet, sweet sleep!

"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep
From which none ever wake to weep."

In her Bible which had been her constant companion, were found these lines on a slip of paper pinned carefully on the fly leaf, evidently left there with a view of comforting those who would be left to mourn when she was gone.

Some of our village boys visited Lake Erie for pleasure, and enjoyed themselves finely until Sunday, when two of the party were taken sick; cause, too much sturgeon.

Our town was excited over the antics of a young man from Wayne, while intoxicated. Boys, beware! for our town has resolved not to be a resort for drunken young men on Sundays.

Cut worms are on the rampage. C. Goodrich set out 129 tomato plants, and in two or three days he had but four plants left. A little paste board or stiff brown paper around the plants will prevent the worms from cutting them off.

Circuit court opens next Tuesday, June 1st, and the jurors are expected to enter an appearance on the 2d. The docket consists of eight criminal cases, twenty-four issues of fact, four imparlance, nine chancery 1st class, one chancery 2d class, and six chancery 4th class.

Yesterday noon Mr. C. T. Henion brought into this office a stool of wheat, every spear of which would measure four feet in height. It was all headed out and in bloom. The same was taken from a five acre field on the farm of John Geddes, of Ann Arbor town, and was but an average stool.

A large and delighted audience greeted Dr. Cocker at the reform club meeting on Sunday afternoon last—the occasion being his farewell address to the organization before leaving for Europe. Every one was highly repaid for the trouble they may have experienced in attending.

Last Sabath six bicyclists went from this city to Saline and from thence to Ypsilanti. Here all but two had tired out their steeds to such an extent that they gave up and returned on the cars. The two who came home as they went were terribly emaciated by the tour, one losing eight and the other six pounds avoirdupois by the affair. But still it is fun to ride—down hill.

A baking powder agent was in town last week, blowing his horn about inferior alum baking powder. Calling on a grocer on Washington street he wished to sell him some pure goods. The grocer showed him his article, and looking at it said he would bet five dollars there was alum in it. It may be said the grocer, but it happens to be purchased of your house! That agent went out of that grocery on the double-quick.

"How to avoid sudden death," is the title of an article going the rounds of the papers. It is easy enough. Keep your paper paid for in advance and never find fault with the editor. We know of an instance where a man got mad at an editor, went to the postoffice and had the postmaster mark "refused" on the margin of the paper, and have it returned without going to the office like a man and paying up. He died of heart disease on the way home. This is only one instance of the kind.

From the Wayne Co. Courier.

GREENFIELD.—Henry Kennedy has been suffering great pain from an abcess forming on the side of his head just back of the ear. He has consulted several physicians, and at last visited Dr. Batwell of Ypsilanti, who lanced it, and he has since suffered much less pain. It has been some weeks forming, and the intense pain and resulting sleeplessness have worn his strength and flesh away until his debilitated condition has given his friends much uneasiness.

WAYNE.—The children of C. Baluss, of Ypsilanti, arrived here a few days ago. It is alleged that Mr. Baluss has the small pox and that the children were exposed to it before being sent away from home.

One of Barnum's alleged Zulus made his escape from the great moral show while on exhibition at Ypsilanti, a few days since, and headed for "Kaintuck" where the majority of his race reside in Detroit. He was last seen at Ed. Brookers, on Beaubien street. It is believed that he is about to embark in the vessel line, as he was seen to purchase several "schooners" during the day.—Michigan Farmer.

HOW MARK TWAIN WAS SWINDLED.

Mr. Redpath tells the following story of Mark Twain:

I think it was Mark's second year of lecturing in the East. He told me one day that he was going to get married, and he wanted me to go with him to buy what you would have called a "trousseau" if you had been a woman. He bought enough for a century or two; he comes from a long-lived race, and he had an eye to the future. He was not worth more than $20,000 or $25,000 at the time, I guess. He has made since over $100,000 by his book and lectures and interests in insurance companies at Hartford, where he lives. He went and got married at Elmira, where his father-in-law lived. The latter was a millionaire, one of the coal-mining lords. Mark had asked his friends in the editorial office to select a first-class suite of rooms in a fashionable boarding-house, and to have a carriage ready to take his bride and himself there when they came to Buffalo. He knew they would do it, and gave himself no more anxiety about it. When he reached Buffalo he found the boys, sure enough, at the depot with the finest carriage and span of horses he had ever seen in that city. They drove him up to a handsome house in an aristocratic street, and as the door was opened, there were the parents of the bride to welcome him home. As the story was told me—I didn't get it from Mark—the bride's folks had come up, without his knowledge, by a special train. Mark went from room to room, and found every room furnished exquisitely—some in blue and some in yellow silks—the furniture and upholstery of the most luxurious and expensive styles. Then he was informed, "officially" that he had been driven up by his own coachman in his own carrage to his own house. They say tears came to Mark's eyes, although his wonderful bright eyes—the keenest and clearest and most penetrating eyes I ever saw in any man's head—aren't given to weeping as a regular business. He could not find words to "express his sentiments," so he only "rose to explain." "Well, this is a first-class swindle!" he stammered.

It weighs with me that dancing is an expensive indulgence. In a candid note which I received from a young man about two years ago, he frankly said to me that one of the things which constantly drains the pockets of young men who want to be respectable and go in good society, but who have only small salaries, is the popular dance. Every dollar to him means something, and it is because of minute expenditures like this, often repeated, that many a young man has been betrayed into the path that led to his ruin.—Dr. Bayliss.

The dance is essentially a spectacle—display—people who dance must dress, so as to dazzle as much by splendor of apparal as by grace of motion. That means expense, and expense which is both unnecessary and of doubtful moral tendency.

It is an amusement which has in it no mind discipline or culture. It explores no field of learning: communicates no facts of history or science; solves no problem in mathematics; discovers no principles of philosophy; when it is a mere question of feet, a fool equals a philosopher. It whirls through a universe of knowledge, utterly oblivious to itself.—Dr. Bayliss.

RELIEF AND CURE OF

Rupture

D r. J. A. SHERMAN, Specialist in the treatment of Hernia, or Rupture for the past forty years, and the inventor and discoverer of the only known successful method for its immediate relief and effectual cure, without the dreadful injuries resulting from continued truss pressure, is and may be daily consulted, Room 5, Michigan Exchange Hotel, for a limited period. His treatment is based upon scientific principles and consists of the anatomical adaptation of his appliance, which is far more efficatious than the truss, and the use of his Curative Compound on external application. During treatment patients can perform any kind of labor with safety from the dangers of strangulation and without interfering with the cure. Persons from abroad may receive treatment and leave for home the same day. No man is safe who has a rupture, no matter how insignificant he may consider it, for every man who has died from it once flattered himself that but a trifling ailment: and to everyman who now suffers from it and the injury of trusses, to such an extent that life has no enjoyment, once regarded it as unworty his attention. It is not a stand-still affliction; it is steadily progressive, even unto death. He is wise who takes the neccessary steps to be relieved of it before the day of suffering and gloom comes upon him. Dr. Sherman's book on Rupture gives the most reliable proofs from distinguished professional gentlemen, clergymen and merchants of his successful practice and popularity therefrom throughout this country and the West Indies for the past 25 years or more. The afflicted should read it and inform themselves. It is illustrated with photographic likeness of extremely bad cases before and after cure, and mailed to those who send 10 cents. KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

The most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. FROM

REV. P. N. GRANGER,
Presiding Elder of the St. Alban's District.
St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880.

DR. J. B. KENDALL & CO., Gents: My experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks, when he became better but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring bone was forming. I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure, and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.
Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Office U. S. Marshall, Western Dist. of Mich.
Kalamazoo, April 15th, 1879.

I received the two bottles of your spavin cure forwarded by express in January last. I am happy to state that it performed all your advertisement called for. In three weeks after I commenced using it the spavin was entirely removed and a valuable horse restored to usefulness.
Very truly yours, JOHN PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

It is known to be the best linament tea man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

REED'S

GILT EDGE TONIC

In every case of fever and ague, it is always a thorough remedy, while for disorders of the stomach, torpidity of the liver, indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent and can have no substitute. It should not be confounded with the triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters.
